

Transfer candidates for admission to undergraduate degree programs must submit these things:

1. A completed application form
2. Official transcripts from all institutions of higher education previously attended.

Transfer candidates who have previously earned a degree at another college or university may have met King's general education requirements. Such students, in addition to their degree, which is evident on their submitted transcripts, must demonstrate that they have taken a total of 30 semester hours of general education in the arts and sciences at a regionally accredited institution. Students must have at least one course in each of the following categories plus enough elective hours to meet the minimum requirement of 30 semester hours in the liberal arts and sciences:

1. English Composition
2. College-level Mathematics
3. Science with Laboratory
4. Human Culture
5. Humanities
6. U.S. and Global Citizenship

All transfer coursework is evaluated based on the educational quality of the coursework, the comparability of the nature, content, and level to King University coursework, and the appropriateness and applicability of the coursework to programs at King University. Only grades of C- or better will qualify a course as transfer credit. A maximum of 76 semester hours of accepted credit may be applied to a student's academic program. There is no age limit for general education courses. Some programs may not accept transfer courses they deem to be out of date. See Transfer Credit Acceptance Policy for details on how previous coursework may be submitted for review.

All transfer candidates must complete a minimum of 48 semester hours at King. Previous work can be applied to general education requirements or to the student's major discipline or to an elective hours category. At least 67% of work in the major discipline must be completed at King. Total number of hours needed for graduation is 124.

Some academic programs, both majors and minors, require specific general education courses as prerequisites for their programs. Transfers must meet those requirements even if they present other courses that would satisfy general education. The specific requirements are mandatory. Some programs have specific GPA requirements for all prior coursework whether completed at King or another institution.

Admission to the institution does not guarantee admission to all academic schools or programs. For information on further requirements, see program admission criteria for the School of Education and the School of Nursing.

Traditional Candidates

Candidates for admission to Traditional programs who bring fewer than 30 semester hours of college work must demonstrate a cumulative GPA at prior institutions of 2.0 on a 4.0 scale.

Candidates with less than 60 semester hours of work and no prior degree who are entering a Traditional academic program will be expected to complete all requirements of the King University Core Curriculum (Catalog Section 3.04.010).

All transfer candidates who become Traditional King University students must complete the Common Experience courses:

1. KING 1000 or 2000, First Year or Transfer Year Experience (1 s.h.)
2. ENGC 3010, Composition: Research and Writing (2 s.h.)
3. KING 4000, Christian Faith and Social Responsibility (1 s.h.)

GPS Candidates

Candidates with less than 45 semester hours of college work may be admitted as Pathway students. In the Pathway Program they can complete their general education requirements and elective hours needed to reach the graduation total of 124. King University recommends that GPS program candidates complete 60 semester hours before they begin a major program.

Due to the fact that GPS programs are in accelerated format, candidates for admission to Graduate and Professional Studies programs must have a cumulative GPA at other institutions of 2.2 on a 4.0 scale. Students with a GPA lower than 2.2 may be considered for acceptance on a conditional basis if they are able to supply a rationale for the possibility of success in a King University GPS program.

A plan of study for general education, electives, and major courses must be created at matriculation.
