

Are you interested in MINISTRY or SEMINARY?

What Can You Do With A Degree in Ministry?

- Missionary
- Archaeologist
- Pastor
- Youth Minister
- Chaplain
- Professor
- Attend graduate schools such as Duke University, Emory University, Princeton University, and Tel Aviv University
- International careers such as Foreign Affairs, Foreign Service, Diplomat, International Relations, or work for companies with an international location

Do you want to change the world?

What does Christianity mean today?

Do you want to be a relevant global citizen?

How can you make a difference?

More Information:

DON MICHAEL HUDSON

Associate Professor of Religion, Chair, Philosophy and Religion
dmhudson@king.edu

"In addition to challenging me academically, the Youth Ministry Program at King developed me spiritually and relationally. Classes offered real life experiences saddled between rousing classroom discussions and in-depth theological study. Because of my experience at King, I grew closer to Jesus, learned about my strengths as a minister, and developed a deeper passion for discipling students."

Pua Coffman

Youth Ministry Major - 2010

Finishing up a two-year student ministry internship at Cedar Springs Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, Tennessee

Current City: Knoxville, Tennessee

Hometown: Knoxville, Tennessee

"The department of Philosophy and Religion at King was foundational to me both during my time as a King student and in the graduate study that followed. During my King days, the faculty of the department challenged me to think critically about my role as a disciple of Christ in a world in which discipleship is difficult, and this transformational experience has remained deeply influential to my faith in the years since my graduation."

Andrew Hicks

English Major, Spanish Minor - 2005

English Instructor - King University

Current City: Johnson City, Tennessee

Hometown: Elizabethton, Tennessee

"I first traveled to Camden for a week long trip with King in May of 2010. My life was forever changed as I quickly developed a deep desire to serve the children and youth of urban cultures. The Youth Ministry classes, professors, and peers at King fostered my passion and equipped me with skills to follow the calling placed on my life."

Brooke Julian (Johnson)

Youth Ministry & Psychology Major - 2013

Assistant Children's Program Director, Fellowship House of South Camden, New Jersey

Current City: Camden, New Jersey

Hometown: Elizabethton, Tennessee

"The knowledge I gained during my time in the Philosophy and Religion department at King is unrivaled. As an undergrad I was able to build a stronger foundational knowledge of both the Christian faith and overall world religions. As a graduate student, the preparation the courses gave for the academic study of Biblical text allowed me to be ahead of my peers and write substantial research-based papers that referenced Biblical text. The department encourages its students to think deeply about issues of life and faith."

Gracie Rossie

English Major - 2012

High School English Teacher/Corps Member - Teach for America

Current City: Florence, South Carolina

Hometown: Blountville, Tennessee