- The OWL allows you to upload a paper for feedback from a tutor employed by King University.
- Each student is allowed 15 submissions per semester.
- The OWL provides asynchronous tutoring to analyze your assignment, brainstorming, and organizing of your essay/paper.
- The goal of OWL is to advise you to improve as a writer, to help you with the writing process, syntax, and documentation of sources.
- The tutor will look over two pages of the uploaded paper and advise of any issues with things such as spelling, punctuation, citations, sentence structure, grammar.
- The turnaround for papers being returned to clients can take up to 48 to 72 hours, so plan ahead.
- If you are a returning OWL client, tutors will not re-visit issues from a previous paper (e.g., grammar issues, punctuation, documentation, formatting).
  - *The tutor will not "catch" every issue in the papers, so students must also review/proofread/revise their papers on their own.
- Discussion board posts will not be reviewed.

Please type any questions you have for the tutor directly into the text box.

Please note these guidelines before you upload and submit your paper:

1. There is a 48-72 hour turnaround time on receiving your paper back from the OWL. Over the weekend and at busy times in the semester, we may need more time. Submit your paper early in order to receive feedback in time to make any needed adjustments in your paper.

2. Please submit a rubric, or assignment sheet, or both along with your paper. Your review may be delayed if OWL does not receive these important supporting documents.

3. You must submit your paper as a MS Word document. We are often not able to open and reply to other formats.

4. The OWL is closed during official school breaks and operates on limited hours during weekends. It may take a bit longer to receive a document back that you submit over a weekend.

5. We do not guarantee any particular grade on an assignment. We will give you advice on improving your writing but are not responsible in any way for the grade that you receive. That grade will be dependent on the changes that you make and how well you meet your professor's expectations.

6. We will only comment on grammar issues in the first two pages of a submitted assignment. Each error will be noted once and explained. You will need to read your entire document to check for similar errors in the rest of the paper. We will not proofread or make any changes for you.
